“HAVING FUN WHILE RAISING FUNDS”

— FOR THE HEART INSTITUTE —

VOLUME 11 • ISSUE 9

MAY 2013

President's Message

It is unbelievable how fast the year has flown by in my first year as city president of this wonderful auxiliary. We are preparing to close another Kindervelt fiscal year and I am inspired with the accomplishments of each group; from their hard work and dedication on fundraising projects to increasing their membership. Thank you to all of our members while “Having Fun While Raising Funds” for Kindervelt and Cincinnati Children’s Heart Institute. Each and every one of you are very special.

We are completing year one of our four year commitment to the Heart Institute - Kindervelt Neurodevelopmental Educational and Learning Center (NDC). Although I am not privileged to know the final amount until our total amount is unveiled at the Annual Meeting on May 16th, at the Manor House in Mason, I am confident our gift will be a wonderful surprise for everyone attending our celebration.

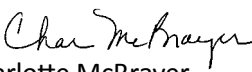

Diana Scrimizzi and her committee have worked very hard to create a truly exceptional experience for you and your guests at the 42nd Annual Meeting. Cocktails begin at 6:00 in the atrium area with dinner being served at 7:00 in the banquet room. The Master of Ceremonies will be Kit Andrews of WKRC Channel 12 News. Kit is a committed supporter of Kindervelt, Kinderklaus Markt and Cincinnati Children’s. We are so happy to have her at this year’s event. You do not want to miss this special evening!

For those attending the Annual Meeting you will want to arrive on time for the cocktail hour to take part in the special events that are planned. Each guest will take home the gift of a picture frame especially painted for them by the Champion Speaker “Kids” who have been patients at Cincinnati Children’s. A treasure hunt will also send attendees home with special gifts for the evening. The slate of new officers for the Board of Trustees 2013-2104 will be presented by our nominating chair Sheila Horan. Our 20, 30, and 40 year members will be honored by Tammy Booth, membership chair and the Barbara Fitch Award will be presented to a member by Tracy Smith our vice president. Our featured speakers will be the doctors from the Heart Institute – NDC; Dr. Jeffrey Robbins, Dr. Jeffrey Towbin, Dr. Bradley Marino and Dr. David Morales. For more information on the Annual Meeting, please visit our website at www.kindervelt.org and in this Newsletter.

In closing, I would like to quote Carl Jung, “Your vision will become clear only when you can look into your own heart. Who looks outside, dreams. Who looks inside, awakes.” Thank you for all you do for Kindervelt and Cincinnati Children’s. All of you have looked “inside your heart” to help our children at the Heart Institute.

Sincerely,

Charlotte McBrayer
City President

NEWS FROM THE HEART INSTITUTE

WHAT YOUR HEART HISTORY HAS TO DO WITH YOUR KID'S SPORTS

By Dr. John Lynn Jefferies
March 26, 2013

It's a story that we hear too often: a student athlete shoots a game-winning shot and collapses during the celebration. In many cases the underlying cause of that fatal collapse is sudden cardiac arrest (SCA) caused by an undiagnosed form of cardiomyopathy. Student athletes can have cardiomyopathy, a disease of the heart muscle itself, without having any symptoms, and the first sign can be SCA.

Athletes ages 13 and older are at greater risk than younger athletes because they are more capable of generating a sudden burst of energy. When an athlete with undiagnosed cardiomyopathy engages in a sudden burst of activity — like sprinting to catch a ball — adrenaline levels are high, which predisposes him or her to unusual heart rhythms that may be life-threatening. It is important to note that individuals with cardiomyopathy, regardless of age or burst activity, are at higher risk for sudden cardiac arrest.

While it is common for children and adolescents with cardiomyopathy to be completely asymptomatic, some symptoms may be present, which include chest pain, shortness of breath, palpitations, dizziness, or unexplained fainting. These symptoms are often dismissed as over-exertion in athletes.

The good news is that the number of student athletes at-risk for sudden heart failure is relatively small. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention estimates that every year in the United States, approximately 2,000 people younger than 25 will experience sudden cardiac arrest. The challenge is identifying which ones are at-risk, without performing an expensive echocardiogram (ultrasound of the heart) on every student athlete.

So as a parent, what can be done? One of the most powerful tools you have in your arsenal is knowledge of your family's history.

Here are four questions to ask yourself and your family members:

1. Has anyone in our family had unexplained sudden cardiac arrest?
2. Has anyone in our family had sudden cardiac arrest at a young age?
3. Has anyone in our family had a history of unexplained fainting?
4. Has anyone in our family had an arrhythmia (unusual heart beat) or heart muscle disease?

If you answer yes to one or more of the above questions, further assessment is warranted for your student athlete.

Historically, doctors have used an EKG (or electrocardiogram, a test that identifies heart rhythm abnormalities) to diagnose cardiomyopathy, but we have found that an EKG is not sensitive enough to catch every problem that could lead to sudden cardiac arrest. Early research conducted at Cincinnati Children's Heart Institute shows that an abbreviated echocardiogram may be the right test to diagnose cardiomyopathy in athletes who warrant testing due to family history. It is more accurate than an EKG, and is less expensive than a full echocardiogram.

Armed with your family's heart history and the knowledge of the most appropriate diagnostic tools, I encourage you to discuss any concerns you have with your child's doctor. Pursue clinical evaluation, risk assessment and possible referral to a center experienced in the diagnosis and management of cardiomyopathy. As we head into one of the busiest sports seasons of the year, these steps will help you provide the safest sports environment for your child.

Fellow members, here is my newest idea – thanks to Val Taylor! I know that you all have a story of some sort for me – for the reason you joined your group, or an experience that was especially touching at a Kindervelt event, or that you witnessed while at Children’s Hospital. I’m offering to interview you to get the details, and I’ll write the article for you! I look around at President’s Council and see women who have been members for years.... Some of you must have a touching story that everyone will enjoy! Be in touch with me, please!

Member Highlight

Valerie Taylor # 22

I’ve been a fan of CCHMC since 1991, when my son Michael was born with significant health issues and spent the first seven weeks of his life in the NICU and the next three years in and out of the Airway Management Unit, the Orthopedic Surgery department, the Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy, and Speech Therapy departments and various other departments and clinics. He’s now a junior at Muskingum University, and I’ll always be grateful for the wonderful care he received at Children’s. We met so many other families who’d travelled thousands of miles -- sometimes from around the world -- to receive the care we could walk to from the house in Clifton where we lived at the time. When we moved into a neighborhood with an active Kindervelt group, of course I joined. And I learned that a Kindervelt group can be more than just a fundraising organization: it can be a way to bring a neighborhood together. In a time when many of us are interacting more often via some backlit screen than face-to-face, Kindervelt provides a way to know my neighbors.

Kindervelt Group Highlight Kindervelt 71 Blue Ash

Group number 71- Blue Ash – was started in 1981. Currently there are 10 active members along with several sustaining members. We meet at individual's home about 4 to 5 times a year. We have two major fundraisers every year. In May we have a plant sale. The general public is invited to order our plants, but most sales are distributed within the group membership. This group makes a lot of money from the plant sale, and we have been putting it on for about 15 years. The group also holds a Bunco party in the fall. The Bunco is usually held in different locations and this year it was held at the First Watch in Montgomery. There were about 100 people who played and we also held a quarter auction. The bunco event is normally held on the third Thursday in October. Several of our members have received their thirty-year pins. we are a fun group raising funds for children's hospital and always looking for new members.

You can sell programs at the tournament, receive free admission and parking, then stay to watch top ranked tennis players!

(Entrance to the Main Stadium matches is restricted) Sign up with a friend - we work in pairs!

We raised $5000 for Cincinnati Children's Hospital last year!

Each Kindervelt group who helps to sell programs is given a check for the number of shifts they worked, based on the amount KV earns divided by the total number of shifts. KV earns 15% of total sales during the tournament.
